BITTER AGAINST MR. CLARK

House Committee Angered by the Architect's Refusal to Resign.

WOULD ABOLISH THE OFFICE

Official Action to Be Taken Calling the President's Attention-Animus of the Attack Said to Be His Failure to Give Places to Congressmen's Constituents.

The warfare began by the House Committee on Ventilation and Acoustics, of which Mr. Shell is chairman, against Architect Clark, of the Capitol building, is rapidly developing into a sensation. But the fight promises to be a vigorous one on both sides. Mr. Clark has already refused to resign, and be reiterated that refusal yesterday when questioned as to his plans in the matter. The difficulty is stated by Mr. Shell to be that Mr. Clark is insisting upon pursuing oldfashioned methods in the performance of the duties of his office, and that he had opposed vigorously and unnecessarily the proposed plan of ventilation suggested by the committee in their report to the House, which bears date of May 8 last.

It was further charged against Architect Clark that he had an unnecessarily large force of men upon the rolls of his office; that certain necessary and proper improvements about the Capitol building were delayed because, according to Mr. Clark's idea, they were not indispensable, and that when he appeared before the committee at the recent meetings he showed little of the technical knowledge which a man in his position should exhibit.

The committee committed the rather unusual act of calling upon Mr. Clark to resign. As he is a Presidential appointee and not a mere servant of the House, he very naturally refused to comply. The result was that Mr. Shell has prepared and intends to introduce to-lay, after it has been seen by all the members of the committee, a resolution declaring the desired of the Committee, as resolution about many and the contraction of the committee of th nmittee committed the rather unbers of the committee, a resolution declaring the office of architect of the Capitol abol-

CALLING THE PRESIDENT'S ATTENTION. He claims that such a resolution does no require concurrence by the Senate, as it is sufficient to call the attention of the President to the matter. On the other side matter stand as follows: Mr. Clark has been th architect of the Capitol since 1865, having been appointed to that position by President Johnson. His administration of the office, it is claimed by his friends, has been satisfac-tory during the twenty-nine years be has held office. The present difficulty is declared to a mere attempt to get him out of his office ause he is not altogether yielding enough to certain Congressmen.

With regard to his alleged opposition to the plan for ventilation recommended by Mr.
Shell's committee, it is said that all that Mr. Shell's committee, it is said that in that any clark did was to oppose the pian suggested by certain Chicago parties, friends of Congressman Durborrow from that city, who is a member of the committee and active against Mr. Clark. He has never endeavored to prevent the House adopting whatever plan of ventilation seemed to it proper, but simply made recommendations in his official capacity.

With regard to the charges that Mr. Clark has been slow and old-fashioned in his conduct of the architect's office, it is anwered that there is a perfect stream of people with new plans for ventilation, sanitation, etc., whose suggested improvements are costly and needless, and that it is the proper busi-bess of the architect of the Capitol to treat these as they deserve. ANSWER TO ONE OF THE CHARGES.

The charge that there have been an un necessary number of employes upon the roll of the office are answered by the statemen that each one was for a few days only, in order to divide work equitably, and that a large number of these were given work be retain its office. He has many friends, both in the House and in the Senate, who are outspoken in his favor, and the names of several Senators are mentioned who will see that he is treated fairly.

This is not the first effort that has been made to get him out of office. In 1885, dur-ing President Cleveland's first administra-tion, the stonecutiors' union preferred charges against Mr. Clark because it was said he insisted on having certain work done by contract rather than day's work. The result was the preparation of a volume of over 200 pages of testimony, which was presented to the President. He refused to remove Mr.

It is generally believed at the Capitol that there is a personal animus in this attack on Mr. Clark, and that as he withstood a similar attack before he will do it again.

Important Decision Defining the Power of Episcopal Parish Registers. ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 21.-The court of appeals of Maryland has rendered an important decision in regard to the vestry act of the Protestant Episcopal Church, Dr.

Thomas H. Brashaw, of St. Margaret's, Westminister parish, of this state, sued out a writ of mandamus to compel the register of the parish to enroll him as a member of the Protestant Episcopal Church in said parish. The court below dismissed the mandamus The court below dismissed the mandamus, holding that the register's duties were judicial; the court above, in an opinion by Judge Page, reverses this decision and practically decides that the duties of the register are merely ministerial and the sole question to be decided by the register is, was the applicant a member of the Protestant Episcopal Church's Church?

Then they turned and ran up Tenthu E, where the driver, John Smith, brought them to a stand still. Smith was not hurt, and, except the col-lision no damage was done, aithough at that time the streets were crowded with teams and pedestrians.

HIS REPLY TO REV. DR. ENNIS

Sermon of This Cleryman Characterized as an Exhaustive Construction of Ridiculous Conjecture-Theosophy Put Forward as the All-Embracing Creed.

Metzerott hall was crowded to the doors last night by an interested audience which gathered to listen to the theosophist, Claude Falls Wright, who replied to assertions made last Sunday by Rev. Dr. H. W. Esnis, of the Western Preebyterian church, concerning theosophy. In the audience were some of the best-known theoso-phists in the city, and in a box were seated sophical Society, and his wife.

during the last three years of her life, during which time he acted as her confidential secretary. Since her death he has been actively en gaged in the work of his society, and has like gaged in the work of his society, and has like every other theosophical propagandist, labored entirely without remuneration.

President Coffin made the introductory address. He stated that the society had ne creed or rule. Theosophy taught a man to lead the life of the soul, and in that way to cultivate the virtues of patience, honesty, humanity, and kindliness. Mr. Wright's address, he said, was the result of an attack made on the society by the Rev. Heward W. Ennis, and he left it to the audience to judge which is right.

Mr. Wright when introduced, said: "I was in hopes that I should not speak to you slone tonight. I had expected that a rep: ntative from one of the churches would be here. I was disappointed, and therefore I am to be alone and uncontradicted in my remarks concerning theosophy and the churches.

"I am not here to attack any church or any individual religion. I am not ready to say I have the truth and that no one else has it. The Theosophical Society was created in order to embrace all the religions of the world. It is therefore not for me to attack Christianity, for it is on that our society is founded.

REV. DR. ENNIS' SERMON.

REV. DR. ENNIS' SERMON. "Now, let me tell you upon what that lecture of Mr. Ennis was founded. I had not intended to use his name, but I am compelled to do it to use his name, but I am compelled to do it.
Two weeks ago I lectured in a small hall in this city on 'Occult Development'. At the conclusion of my lecture I was introduced to a person who gave his name as Ennia. He said to me: 'Will you allow me to ask you two questions?' I repiled that I was willing, and he said: 'How do theosophists regard God?' and 'What is your belief concerning reincarnation?'
"I told him that those were questions that it would be hard to answer in a moment. He then immediately attacked something that I had said during my lecture. I replied with an argument, and he said hastily: 'I only come to ask questions.'

itions."

"I did not get time to talk to him as fully should have liked. The next that I knew I heard of his lecture. I have it with me, and I must say that it is an exhaustive construction of ridiculous

"He referred to Mme. Blavatsky's legerdemain "He referred to Mme. Biavatsky's legerdemain or conjuring tricks and said that they would secure her renown even in India. In reply I would say, in no more uncharitable spirit than Mr. Eunis felt, that Jesus performed miracles. If he brands one an imposture, why not the other? Mr. Ennis would throw up his hands with holy horror if I were to refer to the miracle of the loaves and fishes as legerdemain, and yet he calmly stands on the platform and attacks my creed. The only difference between Mr. Ennis and myself is that I can injure him and he cannot hurt me. MEN MUST SEEK THE TRUTH.

"Just as in other religions is it in theosophy that men must struggle and strive after the true ight. The teaching is not all. Mr. Ennis says that as we are not teaching the true religion; that we are giving a religion of broken hearts. That is untrue, for there is just as much joy and happiness as can be adduced from other religious.

"It is claimed by Dr. Ennis that we refer to

"It is claimed by Dr. Ennis that we refer to the Bible as a French novel. That is untrue. Those who have attended my lectures know that I have often quoted the Bible, and that in all earnestness."

"Now comes our relation to the great power termed God. We do not claim that Jesus is a son of God. We do claim that there is more than one God. Those who will go buck and stuly the Sanskrit, on which the Old Testament is founded, will find that the Jews had many gods, of whom Jehovah was the great tribal God. Moses says in Numbers. Do not revile the gods. Note the plural here. The Bible is illiterate throughout, and those who search to learn will know this. Theosophy is the hardest religion of all. In the Roman Catholic church and other churches the parishioners and worshippers pay their money and are told what to believe. Here a man in the audience objected to the reference to the Roman Catholic church, but he was soon satisfied that no offense was meant.
"Dr. Ennis says," continued the speaker, "that theosophy is so hard that no one can understand it, and that the Christian religion is such that a child can comprehend it. I should like to ask Dr. Ennis to pick up Revealed inos and explain it.

child can comprehend it. I should like to ast Dr. Ennis to pick up Revelations and explain it in five minutes. A VEHICLE FOR MONEY MARING.
"I have said and I contend it is the truth that the church is a vehicle for money making. This is angrily denied. I refer to the high salaries is angrily denied. I refer to the high salaries paid ministers, bishops, and archbishops, and them respectfully refer these people to Jesus' words: 'All thou hast seil, and give to the poor.'

"Dr. Ennis would say there is no tenderness in theosophy. I say that much of the religion that men l'arned at their mother's knee, the kindlest and tenderest religion of all, is the kindlest and tenderest religion of all, is the kindlest and tenderest religion is fairy-like. I say no. It is the bravest, truest, and most gentle of all common sense.

"Dr. Ennis says that theosophists know nothing about their religion, and adds that in a week's study he knew more about theosophy than thosophists did themselves. This is the cry of the ignorant, the dumb rattle of the idol worshipper. He said as did the Pharises: 'I am greater and holler than thou. I thank God that I am not as other men.' He wound up by praying for us. That is what I cail, to use a vulgar phrase, playing it low down on theosophists."

FREE RELIGION BACK OF THE BIBLE. Mr Wright then went on to attack those per sons who should be teachers, but are dejuding

Mr Wright then went on to attack those persons who should be teachers, but are deluding these who come to them for the light. He said that ministers were placing before the public an alleged authentic religion easy to understand. Then he added:

"I say that the true religion lies behind the Bible. It gives the clue. It gives the leading lines and to those who will study and work the truth shall be known and then this so-called easy Christianity will be seen as a flimsy tangle of fairy story fretwork.

The speaker then began an exhaustive outline of the thosophical belief. He read from a book the leading tenets of the society. He referred to the similarity in the natures of Christ and Buddha. He showed many points in the life of Buddha that were identical with those of Jesus and then added that as the Buddhistic history was by far the oldest the claims about the life of Christ were forgeries and only plagiarisms of the history of Buddha. He added:
"I don't say this to hurt Christianity. I say theosophy tries to reconcile all religions, and it is the true religion. Others are faulty. This is the combination of the great truths and the Godgiven light, not Bible myths, and those who will study shall know the truth."

At the conclusion of the lecture, which was entured and the general discussion, in which the audience freely joined.

"Hullo! That green seal sherry. I though we condemned it at Marseilles. You might have brought up some better stuff to-day Why, that's like drinking molasses and bran-dy. No, thanks, old man. Polson yoursell if you like, but none for me." "You're right it is. Why should I refuse to drink to her when— Yes, Tom, I'll join you." And he reached down a decanter of port. Now, he hated port at all times, and as port in such an atmosphere as we were under then is nothing short of Aceidama, I saw fit to expectivate.

For a good minute he said nothing, only bit his lip and stared at me. Then he burst out with, "What do you mean by this inso-"Kerosene or copying-ink if you like, man, but not port. Why not green seal sherry?"
"What is there that makes you so sus-

"I mean simply that I don't like your tap of liquor, old man; your opinion of the stuff, f you remember, coincided with mine." "Peter, go out. I have something to say to Mr. Vincent in private. Shut the door after you, and stay out till I call. Now, sir, the high land of North Majorca is visible from the deck. If you choose to leave me, I will have the launch put into the water and steam got up at once. Or will you drink the sherry?" "Who said I was suspicious?"
"I do. You're suspecting me all the time.
You think I want to poisen you."
Now, I had not thought so in the least before, but I knew it then for certain. So I sipped at the sherry, and, tasting something in it that was offensively sweet, spat my mouthful on the floor and pitched the tumbler through the skylight.

"Clearly," thought I, "he's in for a dose of illness of some sort, and I must keep cool and humor him." So I laughed easily, and said, "O, very well, if you make a point of it; hand across the tumbler. I'm too hungry, and the glare outside is a heap too strong to court a marconing just now." marconing just now."
I took the tumbler from his clammy fingers and was going to put it to my lins without further ado when he stopped me.
"Hold on, we must have a toast, Drink to

SPECIAL NOTICE

FEDQUARTERS OF THE MCKINLEY

League, No. S28 Second street southwest, Washington, D. C.—Whereas. The McKinley Tariff League have learned through the duily press the prompt actions taken by the Hea., Julius Goldzier, of Chicago, Ill., in presenting for the House a resolution calling upon the Commissioners of the District for information why they reduced the pay of the unskilled laboration employed by them from $1.50 per day to $1.25 a day, then from $1.50 to $1 per day, thereby causing them to quickly revoke such order, is an act of justice and right that we believe meets the hearty approval of every laboring man, regardless of color or party affiliation; therefore, be it Resolved, That the league do indorse the actions of Mr. Goldzier as one of the many great acts of his done in the interest of the laboring class of this city.
